Important Notes: Stamp duty in Punjab is calculated on the higher of the declared agreement value or the government circle (collector) rate — under-valuing a deal to save stamp duty is both illegal and ultimately ineffective. Rates shown here (7% male / 5% female / 6% joint + 1% registration) are the commonly notified baseline as of mid-2026 and can change by government notification. Punjab does not currently have a widely notified first-time-buyer stamp duty discount the way some other states do — always confirm the latest position with the Sub-Registrar before assuming a concession applies.

Agreement Value vs Circle Rate Comparison

Direct Answer: Whichever figure is higher — your declared agreement value or the government circle rate — becomes the taxable value for stamp duty. Enter your circle rate above to see exactly which one applies to your transaction and by how much.

Punjab Stamp Duty & Registration — Complete Legal Guide

What Is Stamp Duty?

> Direct Answer: Stamp duty is a state government tax levied on the legal document (the sale deed) that transfers ownership of a property, charged as a percentage of the property's value under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 as applicable in Punjab. Without paying it, the sale deed has no legal standing as evidence in court.

Why Is Stamp Duty Charged?

Stamp duty gives a property transaction legal recognition and evidentiary value. An unstamped or under-stamped document cannot generally be admitted as evidence in an Indian court, and the transaction cannot be registered at the Sub-Registrar's office without it. It is also a significant source of state government revenue used to fund public infrastructure and services.

How Is Stamp Duty Calculated?

Stamp duty is calculated as a percentage of the taxable value of the property, which is the higher of two figures: the actual transaction value declared in the sale deed, or the government-notified circle (collector) rate for that specific area and property type. The applicable percentage in Punjab currently depends on the buyer's category — 7% for male buyers, 5% for female buyers, and 6% for joint male-female ownership — and this figure changes only through a formal government notification.

What Is Registration Fee?

> Direct Answer: Registration fee is a separate charge — generally 1% of the taxable property value in Punjab — paid to record the sale deed permanently in the Sub-Registrar's official records under the Registration Act, 1908. It is distinct from stamp duty, though both are paid together at the time of registration.

Difference Between Stamp Duty and Registration Fee

Aspect	Stamp Duty	Registration Fee

Governing law	Indian Stamp Act, 1899	Registration Act, 1908
Purpose	Gives the document legal validity and evidentiary value	Officially records the transaction in government records
Typical rate in Punjab	7% male / 5% female / 6% joint	1% for all buyer categories
Paid via	e-Stamping (SHCIL) or authorised bank	Paid alongside stamp duty at the Sub-Registrar's office

Who Pays Stamp Duty?

The buyer conventionally pays stamp duty and registration charges in Punjab property transactions, since it is the buyer's ownership that the deed is establishing. This can be negotiated between parties in the sale agreement, but the standard market practice is buyer-pays.

When Should Stamp Duty Be Paid?

Stamp duty must be paid before or at the time of executing the sale deed — in practice, most buyers complete e-stamping a few days before the scheduled Sub-Registrar appointment, since the appointment itself requires the stamp duty challan or e-stamp certificate as a prerequisite document.

What Happens If Stamp Duty Is Not Paid?

> Penalty Note: An unstamped or under-stamped document is not admissible as evidence in most legal proceedings and cannot be registered. Punjab law also provides for penalty and interest on deficient stamp duty if discovered later — amounts and provisions vary by case, so always resolve this before registration rather than risk a penalty afterward. Consult a property lawyer for case-specific penalty calculations.

Can Stamp Duty Be Refunded?

In specific circumstances — such as a cancelled sale deed before possession, or stamp duty paid on a document that was never executed — a partial refund can sometimes be claimed through the Collector's office, subject to a limitation period and administrative deduction. Refunds are not automatic and require a formal application; consult a property lawyer for your specific situation.

Importance of Circle Rates

The circle rate (also called collector rate or government rate) is the minimum value per unit area below which a property cannot be registered in a given locality. It exists specifically to prevent under-reporting of transaction value to evade stamp duty. Mohali's collector rates were revised upward in October 2025 — residential rates by roughly 20–22% and industrial by around 30% — so budget accordingly for any purchase after that date, and always ask for the current circle rate of the specific sector before finalizing a deal.

How Sale Consideration Affects the Calculation

Your declared sale consideration (the agreement value) only determines the stamp duty payable when it is higher than the circle rate. If your negotiated price is below the circle rate, the circle rate — not your negotiated price — becomes the taxable base, regardless of what you actually paid the seller. This is why checking the circle rate before finalizing a purchase price is a critical early step, not an afterthought.

Punjab Property Registration Process

> Direct Answer: Property registration in Punjab typically takes 1–3 working days once stamp duty is paid and a Sub-Registrar appointment is booked, followed by a separate mutation process at the Patwari/Tehsildar office to update revenue records.

Draft the Sale Deed

Prepared referencing the agreed transaction and, for GMADA plots, the allotment/transfer permission

Pay Stamp Duty + Registration

Via e-Stamping (Punjab SHCIL portal) or an authorised bank

Book Sub-Registrar Appointment

Through the NGDRS Punjab e-registration portal

Appear with Documents

Both parties (or POA holder) with ID proof and the executed deed

Biometric Verification

Fingerprint and photo capture at the Sub-Registrar's office, with witnesses present

Registered Deed Issued

Typically within 1–3 working days of appointment

File for Mutation

Separately at the Patwari/Tehsildar office — updates revenue records ("Intkal")

Required Documents

- Sale deed / agreement to sell
- ID and address proof of buyer and seller (Aadhaar, PAN, passport for NRIs)
- Passport-size photographs of both parties and witnesses
- Property documents — previous sale deed, Jamabandi/Fard, mutation record
- No Objection Certificate (NOC) where applicable — society, builder, or GMADA transfer permission
- PAN card mandatory for transactions above ₹10 lakh (or Form 60 where PAN is unavailable)
- Stamp duty e-stamp certificate / payment challan

Biometric Verification & Witness Requirements

The Punjab registration process requires biometric verification (fingerprint and photograph) of both the buyer and seller at the Sub-Registrar's office, along with at least two witnesses who also provide identification and biometric confirmation. If either party cannot be physically present, a registered and duly attested Power of Attorney holder can execute the registration on their behalf.

Mutation ("Intkal") — Why It's a Separate Step

Mutation is the process of updating the government's revenue records (Jamabandi) to reflect the new owner's name, carried out at the local Patwari or Tehsildar office after registration. It is legally distinct from registration — a registered sale deed proves the transaction happened, while mutation updates who the land revenue records show as the current owner. Skipping mutation does not invalidate your registered ownership, but it can cause complications later when reselling, applying for a loan against the property, or paying property tax.

Jamabandi & Fard — What They Are

Term	Meaning
Jamabandi	The periodically updated master record of land ownership and revenue details for a village or area
Fard	An extract or certified copy of the Jamabandi for a specific parcel of land, commonly required for verification and loan applications

Property Verification Before Registration

Before registering any property in Punjab — especially GMADA-allotted or resale plots — verify the complete chain of ownership through certified copies of prior registered deeds, confirm there is no encumbrance or mortgage against the property, and check that stamp duty on any prior transaction in the chain was correctly paid. Our GMADA Property Verification Guide covers this full checklist in detail.

Time Required for Registration

Once all documents are ready and stamp duty is paid, the Sub-Registrar appointment and execution itself typically takes 1–3 working days. The broader timeline from property selection to a fully registered and mutated property is usually 2–4 weeks for ready-to-move transactions and 4–8 weeks for under-construction or GMADA transfer-permission cases, assuming no document gaps.

E-Stamping Overview

Punjab uses the SHCIL (Stock Holding Corporation of India Limited) e-stamping system for generating stamp duty payment certificates online, replacing the older physical stamp paper system. Buyers register on the e-stamping portal, pay the calculated stamp duty digitally or via an authorised collection bank, and receive a certificate that is presented at the time of registration. Registration appointments themselves are booked through the NGDRS Punjab e-registration portal.

Complete Property Buying Cost Breakdown

Beyond stamp duty and registration, budget for these additional costs when buying property in Punjab — the Home Buying Cost Planner above lets you adjust each one to your own numbers.

- Stamp Duty + Registration: 8%–9% of taxable value depending on buyer category (calculated above)
- Legal & Documentation Fees: Typically ₹10,000–₹40,000 for title verification, deed drafting, and lawyer's fees
- Brokerage: Market-standard is 1–2% of transaction value; zero with Royals Property Consultant's buyer-side service
- Home Loan Processing Fee: 0.25%–1% of loan amount + 18% GST, if financing the purchase
- Mortgage Deed Stamp Duty: Approximately 0.25% of the loan amount, paid separately if using a home loan
- GST (Under-Construction Only): Roughly 5% (non-affordable) or 1% (affordable housing) on the construction value — not applicable to ready-to-move resale property or to stamp duty itself
- Society/RWA Maintenance Deposit: Commonly ₹50,000–₹3,00,000 depending on the project and unit size

- Utility Connection Charges: Electricity, water and sewerage connection charges, typically ₹15,000–₹75,000
- GMADA Transfer Fee (LOI/Allotment Resale): Approximately ₹10,000–₹15,000, where applicable

Frequently Asked Questions — Punjab Stamp Duty Calculator

Stamp Duty Basics

1. What is a Punjab Stamp Duty Calculator?

A free tool that instantly computes your stamp duty, registration fee, and total registry cost based on your property value, circle rate, and buyer category.

2. How much is stamp duty in Punjab?

Generally 7% for male buyers, 5% for female buyers, and 6% for joint male-female ownership, calculated on the higher of agreement value or circle rate.

3. What is registration fee in Punjab?

A separate charge of approximately 1% of the taxable property value, paid alongside stamp duty to officially record the sale deed.

4. Is this calculator free to use?

Yes, completely free with no signup required.

5. How is registry cost calculated?

Registry cost is stamp duty plus registration fee, both calculated on the higher of the agreement value or the government circle rate.

6. Does this calculator work for any property value?

Yes, from ₹1 lakh up to ₹20 crore.

7. Can I calculate stamp duty using the circle rate instead of agreement value?

Yes — enter both values and the calculator automatically uses whichever is higher, as required by law.

8. Is my data saved or sent anywhere?

No — all calculations run locally in your browser. Nothing is stored unless you choose to send details via the WhatsApp contact form.

9. Can I export or print my estimate?

Yes — use the "Print / Save PDF" button, or "Share Estimate" to copy a summary.

10. Is stamp duty different for commercial property in Punjab?

The base stamp duty percentage structure follows the same Stamp Act rate slabs regardless of property type, though commercial and industrial transactions can attract additional local body charges — always confirm with the Sub-Registrar for your specific property type.

Buyer Category & Rates

11. Why do women pay lower stamp duty in Punjab?

Punjab offers a concessional stamp duty rate for female buyers (5% vs 7% for male buyers) to encourage property ownership among women.

12. What is the stamp duty for joint ownership?

Joint male-female ownership is generally charged at 6%, between the male and female individual rates.

13. What if two male buyers register jointly?

Joint ownership between two male buyers typically attracts the standard male rate of 7% — the reduced joint rate applies specifically to male-female joint ownership. Confirm with the Sub-Registrar for your specific case.

14. Do NRIs pay a different stamp duty rate in Punjab?

No — NRIs and OCIs pay the same stamp duty rates as resident Indian buyers, based on the same male/female/joint categories. NRI buyers should additionally note TDS obligations under Section 194IA on the seller's side for transactions above ₹50 lakh.

15. Is there a first-time buyer stamp duty discount in Punjab?

There is no widely notified first-time-buyer stamp duty concession in Punjab at present, unlike some other Indian states. Always verify the latest position with the Sub-Registrar before assuming a concession applies.

16. Can I register a property in only the wife's name to get the lower rate?

Yes, this is a common and legal practice — registering solely in a female buyer's name qualifies for the 5% rate, subject to standard documentation and, if a home loan is involved, the lender's co-applicant requirements.

17. Does buyer age affect stamp duty in Punjab?

No, stamp duty rates in Punjab are based on buyer category (male/female/joint) and property value, not age.

18. Do senior citizens get a stamp duty concession?

No specific senior citizen stamp duty concession is currently notified in Punjab. Always confirm the latest position with the Sub-Registrar.

19. Does stamp duty differ for agricultural land purchases?

The rate structure follows the same Stamp Act framework, though agricultural land transactions may involve additional restrictions on who can purchase such land under Punjab's land laws — consult a property lawyer before proceeding.

20. Can stamp duty rates change without notice?

Rates change through formal Punjab government notification, and while these are public, they aren't always widely publicized in advance — always verify the current rate before a transaction.

Circle Rate & Valuation

21. What is a circle rate?

The government-notified minimum value per unit area below which a property transaction cannot be registered in a given locality — also called the collector rate.

22. Why does circle rate matter more than my negotiated price?

Because stamp duty is calculated on whichever is higher — your agreement value or the circle rate — the circle rate can determine your actual payable duty even if you negotiated a lower price.

23. How often does Mohali's circle rate change?

It changes periodically via government notification — Mohali's rates were revised upward in October 2025 by roughly 20–22% for residential and 30% for industrial properties.

24. Where can I find the current circle rate for my sector?

Check with the local Sub-Registrar's office (SAS Nagar for Mohali) or the NGDRS Punjab portal for the current notified rate for your specific area.

25. Can I register a property below the circle rate?

No — registration below the circle rate is generally not permitted; stamp duty will be charged on the circle rate value regardless of a lower declared price.

26. What if my agreement value is higher than the circle rate?

Then stamp duty is charged on your actual, higher agreement value — the circle rate only becomes relevant when it exceeds the declared value.

27. Is circle rate the same as market value?

No. Circle rate is a government-notified minimum benchmark; actual market value can be higher, especially in high-demand sectors.

28. Does circle rate vary by property type within the same sector?

Yes, circle rates are typically notified separately for residential, commercial, and industrial land use within the same area.

29. Can I contest an incorrect circle rate applied to my property?

Yes, valuation disputes can be raised with the Collector's office through a formal application — consult a property lawyer for the specific process.

30. Does under-valuing a deal actually save money?

No — since duty is charged on the higher of agreement value or circle rate, declaring a value below the circle rate provides no stamp duty benefit and is also illegal.

Registration Process

31. How long does property registration take in Punjab?

Typically 1–3 working days once stamp duty is paid, documents are ready, and a Sub-Registrar appointment is booked.

32. What documents are needed for registration?

Sale deed, ID and address proof of both parties, photographs, PAN card (mandatory above ₹10 lakh), property records, and the stamp duty payment certificate.

33. Do I need to be physically present for registration?

Yes, unless represented by a registered and duly attested Power of Attorney holder, in which case they can execute the registration on your behalf.

34. What is biometric verification during registration?

A fingerprint and photograph capture of the buyer, seller, and witnesses at the Sub-Registrar's office, required as part of the registration process.

35. How many witnesses are required for registration?

Typically at least two witnesses are required, who also provide identification and biometric confirmation.

36. Where do I register a property in Mohali?

At the Sub-Registrar's office for SAS Nagar (Mohali), after booking an appointment through the NGDRS Punjab e-registration portal.

37. What is e-stamping?

Punjab's digital system (via SHCIL) for generating and paying stamp duty online, replacing physical stamp paper, with the certificate presented at registration.

38. Can registration be done on the same day as stamp duty payment?

Usually not immediately — most buyers complete e-stamping a few days before their scheduled Sub-Registrar appointment.

39. What happens after the sale deed is registered?

You receive the registered copy of the deed, after which mutation must be separately filed at the Patwari/Tehsildar office to update revenue records.

40. Can registration be cancelled after execution?

Cancellation of a registered deed is legally possible only under specific circumstances and requires a formal cancellation deed, also subject to its own stamp duty — consult a property lawyer.

Mutation & Revenue Records

41. What is mutation ("Intkal")?

The process of updating government revenue records to reflect the new owner's name after a property transaction, done separately from registration.

42. Is mutation required to legally own the property?

A registered sale deed itself legally transfers ownership; mutation updates the revenue records to match, and skipping it can cause complications with resale, loans, or property tax later.

43. Where is mutation filed?

At the local Patwari or Tehsildar office covering the property's location.

44. What is Jamabandi?

The periodically updated master record of land ownership and revenue details for a village or area.

45. What is Fard?

A certified extract of the Jamabandi for a specific parcel of land, commonly required for verification and loan applications.

46. How long does mutation take after registration?

Timelines vary by Tehsil workload, but buyers should initiate the mutation application promptly after registration rather than delaying it.

47. Can I sell a property that hasn't been mutated in my name yet?

It's legally possible in some cases but strongly discouraged — an incomplete mutation chain can create documentation gaps and delays for the next buyer.

48. Does mutation cost extra?

Mutation typically involves a nominal administrative fee, separate from stamp duty and registration charges.

49. What documents are needed for mutation?

The registered sale deed, prior Jamabandi/Fard extract, and identity proof are typically required at the Patwari/Tehsildar office.

50. Does GMADA handle mutation for its allotted plots?

GMADA's Estate Office maintains its own allotment and transfer records; revenue mutation at the Patwari/Tehsildar office is still typically required separately.

Costs, Loans & GMADA-Specific Charges

51. What is mortgage deed stamp duty?

A separate, smaller stamp duty — typically around 0.25% of the loan amount — charged on the mortgage/loan agreement itself when a property purchase is financed.

52. Is mortgage deed duty included in my home loan processing fee?

No, it's a separate government charge distinct from the bank's own processing fee.

53. What is the GMADA transfer fee?

A charge of approximately ₹10,000–₹15,000 applicable when transferring a GMADA-allotted plot or LOI on the secondary market, paid in addition to standard stamp duty and registration.

54. Does GST apply to stamp duty or registration?

No, GST does not apply to stamp duty or registration charges themselves.

55. When does GST apply to a property purchase?

Only on the construction value of an under-construction purchase from a builder — typically around 5% for non-affordable housing and 1% for affordable housing, without input tax credit. GST does not apply to ready-to-move resale property.

56. Does Royals Property Consultant charge brokerage to buyers?

No — Royals offers zero brokerage on the buyer side across all residential property purchases in the Tricity region.

57. What legal fees should I budget for a property purchase?

Typically ₹10,000–₹40,000 for title verification, deed drafting, and a property lawyer's fees, depending on transaction complexity.

58. What is a typical society maintenance deposit?

Commonly ₹50,000–₹3,00,000 depending on the project, unit size, and the society's specific maintenance policy.

59. What utility connection charges should I expect?

Electricity, water, and sewerage connection charges typically range from ₹15,000–₹75,000 depending on the property and connection load required.

60. Can I negotiate any of these additional charges?

Legal fees and brokerage are negotiable; stamp duty, registration, and government fees are fixed by law and not negotiable.

Mohali, GMADA & Area-Specific Questions

61. How much are registry charges in Mohali?

The same statewide Punjab rates apply — 7%/5%/6% stamp duty plus 1% registration — calculated on the higher of agreement value or Mohali's current circle rate.

62. Is stamp duty different for GMADA-allotted plots vs resale?

The stamp duty and registration rate structure is the same; GMADA-allotted resale (LOI transfer) additionally attracts a separate GMADA transfer fee before registry.

63. Does this calculator apply to Zirakpur and Kharar too?

Yes — stamp duty and registration rates are set at the state level in Punjab, so the same percentages apply across Mohali, Zirakpur, Kharar, Derabassi, and Banur, though circle rates vary by locality.

64. Are stamp duty rates different for New Chandigarh (Mullanpur)?

The percentage rates follow the same Punjab-wide structure; only the applicable circle rate differs by locality within GMADA's jurisdiction.
